NUMB. 3159

TUESDAY APRIL 17, 1744.

Yesterday arriv'd a Mail from Holland.

Stockholm, April 7.

THE Ruſſian Troops that are at preſent in this Kingdom, have Orders to hold themſelves ready to embark, that they may return Home by the latter End of next Month. The King has named Baron Hopken, formerly his Majeſty's Miniſter at the Court of Ruſſia, to reſide with the ſame Character at Co-penhagen. Count Teſſin arrived from thence the Day before Yeſterday; he has acquired great Reputation by the Manner in which he conducted his Negociation at the Court of Denmark; and particularly, for his Addreſs in ſettling the Peace of the two Crowns, without ſo much as mentioning the Affairs of Holſtein; which leaves us at Liberty to purſue, in that Reſpect, the Meaſures that ſhall be thought requiſite by the Court of Ruſſia. M. de Wind, who arrived here upon the 2d of this Month, in Quality of Miniſter Plenipotentiary from the King of Denmark, had Yeſterday an Audience of his Majeſty, and was extremely well received. On the 24th laſt Month a very briſk Shock of an Earthquake was felt in Wirmeland; which has not only ſurprized the Inhabitants, but the whole Kingdom, ſuch a Thing having been ſcarce ever heard of here.

Warſaw, April 4. The Revolt of the Peaſants in Lithuania is entirely cruſh'd, by the Execution of Six of their Chiefs, who were impaled alive, and Nine others beheaded and hang'd. The famous Woiſczelow, who was at their Head, has made his Eſcape into the Diſtrict of Smolow, and hitherto the Ruſſians have refuſed to give him up; but we are not, however, without Hopes of prevailing them to alter their Sentiments. It is now believed, that the Diſpute between Count Tarlo and Prince Lubomirſki will be amicably adjuſted; and it is likewiſe hop'd, that his Highneſs will compromiſe the Diſputes that have ſubſiſted ſo long between him and the Elector Palatine.

Naples, April 1. The King has been pleaſed, before he ſet out for the Army, which was on the 25th of laſt Month, to order all who had been taken up as diſaffected to be ſet at Liberty, let the Proofs againſt them be what they would; which had ſuch an Effect, that many of them demanded Leave to make the Campaign in his Majeſty's Army, that he might be Eye-Witneſs of the Zeal his Clemency had inſpired. When the News of their Majeſties quitting the City was brought to the Ear of Don Jaques Roſſi, formerly Agent from Parma, and a great Favourite of the King's, it affected him ſo much, that he fell immediately dead from his Chair. Their Majeſties lay that Night at Capua, and the next Morning parted; the King taking the Road of Calvi, in order to put himſelf at the Head of the Army, and the Queen that of Gaeta. The Combined Armies of Spain and Naples are to form Three Diviſions. The firſt will be compoſed of the Spaniſh Troops, under the Command of the Duke of Modena and Count de Gages, the Cavalry being remounted on Neapolitan Horſes, marching from Peſcara to Chieti; the Second will be commanded by the King in Perſon, having its Right at Chieti, and its Left at Lorenzano; the Third will be commanded by M. de Vieuville, and will extend from Lorenzano to Sera. The King has ordered all the Nobility of Abruzzo to mount on Horſeback.

Genoa, April 5. The French have been now three Days maſter of this City, where they made two Companies of Foot Priſoners. The Prince of Conti has eſtabliſhed his Head Quarters, and expects, with the utmoſt Impatience, the Arrival of 10 Battalions, with which he intends to march immediately to attack the King of Sardinia's Retrenchments at Villafranca. The Army of the Infant Don Philip is compoſed of 30 Battalions; that under the P. of Conti of 20; when the Reinforcement comes, it is computed the two Princes will have between 30 and 40,000 Men. His moſt Chriſtian Majeſty propoſes to march another Army thro' Savoy.

Villafranca, April 6. The Army of the King of Sardinia is poſted immediately before this City, and the Retrenchments thrown up for its Defence are ſo ſtrong, that it would require an Army of four Times its Number to attack it, with any Probability of Succeſs. We have been, for ſometime, in Expectation of Admiral Matthews, but have been diſappointed; which has chagrined his Majeſty ſo much, that he has diſpatched a Courier to Portmahon to know the Reaſon of his Admiral's Stay; and to intreat him, in caſe he cannot put to Sea with the whole Fleet, to ſend, at leaſt, ſome Men of War upon the Coaſt, the Want of which, has been already ſeverely felt; ſince, had there been but a few Engliſh Men of War at the Mouth of the Var, the Enemy would not have paſſed it ſo eaſily; or have been ſo ſoon in a Condition to give us ſo much Trouble.

Carthagena, March 31. The French and Spaniſh Squadrons are ſtill here; and as they are greatly in Want of Repair, and we are but indifferently provided with Naval Stores, it is believed they will not be able to put to Sea again in haſte. The late Battle was more bloody than it was believed to be, of which a Liſt will ſpeedily appear.

Vienna, April 11. Baron Trenck arrived this Morning from Sclavonia, where he has levied a new Corps of Pandours, conſiſting of 1500 Men; the firſt Line of which is compoſed of Men from Seven to Eight Foot high. This Morning great Quantities of Artillery and Ammunition were embarked for Straubingen. A grand Council was held on the Situation of Affairs in Italy, at the Riſing of which, a Courier was diſpatched to Prince Lobkowitz, with Orders, as ſome People think here, to abandon his Enterprize on the Kingdom of Naples, and to march to the Aſſiſtance of the King of Sardinia. It is believed, that, in caſe of Neceſſity, we might ſtill be able to aſſemble in Hungary 30,000 Foot, and 20,000 Horſe, beſides many Thouſand who have offer'd to ſerve as Volunteers; which Offer was not accepted, for fear of depopulating the Country. The Troops which the Queen has at preſent on Foot, conſiſt of 57 Regiments of Infantry, of 2300 Men each; 32 of Cuiraſſiers and Dragoons, of 1000 Men each; 11 of Huſſars, of 1300 Men each; making, in all, 177,400, beſides 40,000 Irregular Troops. One half of this great Force will be employed in the Field, and the other half will remain in Bohemia, Moravia, and Bavaria.

Berlin, April 14. We are well aſſured, that the Count de Rottenbourg has not ſucceeded in his Negotiations at the Court of France; but that he received for Anſwer, That his moſt Chriſtian Majeſty would not ſuffer any of his Troops to join the Army of Neutrality, unleſs commanded by a French General; that in caſe they did join the Army, it ſhould be firſt employ'd in driving the Auſtrians out of Bavaria, and in reſtoring the Emperor to his Hereditary Dominions, but ſhould not attempt to penetrate into Auſtria: that in this Caſe, his moſt Chriſtian Majeſty would have a ſtrong Army on the Rhine, to cover his own Territories; and to ſuccour, if it ſhould be neceſſary, the Army of Neutrality. But if the Queen of Hungary ſhould hereafter trouble the Emperor in the quiet Poſſeſſion of his own Dominions, then his moſt Chriſtian Majeſty was willing his Army ſhould paſs the Rhine, in order to penetrate into the Auſtrian Countries.

Hague, April 23. Yeſterday their High Mightineſſes acquainted Mr. Trevor, that they had granted the Succour he requeſted, of 20 Men of War, in Conſequence of the Treaty of 1678. The ſame Day the Marquis de Fenelon, Ambaſſador of France, had a Conference with the Preſident for the Week, in which he demanded a Publick Audience. This Morning therefore the Count de Rechteren, and M. de Tamminga, Deputies from the States General, went in Ceremony to the Palace of his Excellency, and conducted him in his Coach of State, drawn by ſix Horſes, to the Court, and from thence to the Aſſembly of their High Mightineſſes; where having made his Speech, and taken Leave of their High Mightineſs, he was conducted back again to his Palace, with the ſame Ceremonies. The Train of Coaches, which attended his Excellency on this Occaſion, conſiſted of nine Coaches and Six, 36 of four Horſes, and 32 of Two. In his Speech he was very ſevere upon the Engliſh, for hindering the Queen of Hungary from making Peace on the Terms offered her; and for aſſuming a deſpotick Power in Europe, under Pretence of maintaining the Balance. He informed them likewiſe, that the King, his Maſter, had declared War againſt the Queen of Hungary, and the King of Sardinia, as Diſturbers of the publick Peace; inſinuated ſome Reproaches againſt the States General, for granting a Succour of 20,000 Men to be employed in attacking Alſace. When he had done, the Preſident told him, that they would immediately deliberate on his Speech, and give him an Anſwer as ſoon as poſſible. Being deſired to ſign the Copy of the Speech he delivered, the Marquis de Fenelon ſaid, at taking up the Pen; I will ſign it with all my Heart, and as a Teſtimony of my Candour and Sincerity, I would willingly ſign it with my Blood; to which one of the States replied, very coolly; Plain Ink, will do as well.

IRELAND.

Dublin, April 9. The following Commiſſions having been ſigned by his Majeſty, are enter'd into the Secretary's Office.

In Col. John Folliott's Regiment of Foot.

His Grace the Lord Lieutenant has been pleaſed to ſign the proper Warrant, for preſenting the Rev. Philip Throp, M. A. to the Rectory and Vicarage of Pallas-Greane, in the Dioceſe of Caſhel, void by the Reſignation of the Rev. Arthur Webb, and in his Majeſty's Diſpoſal by the Vacancy of the See.

This Day, at Three o'Clock, his Grace the Lord Lieutenant, attended by the State-Officers, and Battle-axe Guards, and eſcorted by a Squadron of Dragoons, went to the Water-ſide, and embark'd for Parkgate with a fair Wind; the Streets thro' which his Grace paſſed being lined by his Majeſty's Forces on Duty.

Saturday laſt a Man was brought to this City, under a ſtrong Guard, from the County of Wexford, for enliſting Men for Foreign Service; and, after a Hearing before the Right Hon. Lord Chief Juſtice Marley, was committed to Newgate.

The ſame Night a moſt violent Storm aroſe, which did a great deal of Damage to the Veſſels lying in the Harbour, and to many Houſes in the City and Parts adjacent.
